

THE SHOOTING BOX,
BURNHAM THORPE,
KINGS LYNN,
NORFOLK.
BURNHAM MARKET 359

JUN 29 1971

21st June, 1971.

Dr. M. Meselson,
Harvard University,
Oxford Street,
Cambridge, Mass,
U. S. A.

Dear Pat,

...
C.S. and Defoliants are very much in the British news at the moment. You have, no doubt, been following the correspondence which has been stimulated by Stephen Rose, and have seen the article by a Dr. Jones, which appeared in a British scientific weekly, the New Scientist and Science Journal on the 17th of June. Lest you haven't, I attach a photocopy.

I noticed that you made some comment about something Stephen Rose said about your defoliation study, but unfortunately I failed to make a note of the paper in which your letter appeared. I wonder whether you could send me a copy of the correction which you had published.

I notice that Stephen Rose is described as a lecturer in biology. I myself don't know what kind of biologist he is. He and his wife are ardent propagandists for what they call 'social responsibility', but an awful lot of what they write and say appears extremely naïve to my way of thinking.

Jones
M. Jones