Dear George,

Here is the briefing book I mentioned on the telephone earlier today. I would greatly value your suggestions for improving it, especially if you could let me know them before the 17th of this month. I am undecided whether or not to include under tab E a history of U.S. positions on the use of tear gas in war. If I do, it will be based on the enclosed compilation, rewritten to remove the slightly argumentative flavor of the opening paragraph and with some additional paragraphs included at the end to indicate the rather different policies enunciated as the use of tear gas in Vietnam evolved.

as ever,

Matthew Meselson
