Dear Matt,

Many thanks for the book on binaries. Unfortunately, there has not yet been time to read it, but I do recall seeing part of it on television. Also, thanks for the revised summary.

The summer is indeed dwindling away and most of my spare time is spent learning how to sail. A small boat was purchased recently and provides much delight as well as many challenges.

However, I hope to visit Boston very briefly later this month and will surely call beforehand.

My very best to you, Sarah, Zoe, and Valor,
