Dear Matt,

I was hoping to be able to comment on the papers you sent me with your note of 16 January when I responded. But I must confess to you that I find myself still running to learn my new job, and I have been unable to accomplish even the priority reading to stay current with important issues.

You were very kind to send the articles, and I assure you that I will keep them high on the stack. This is just a note to keep from being even more tardy in thanking you for your kindness in forwarding them to me.

The assignment here is most interesting, and an enjoyable break from the rigors of the Pentagon.

I hope to have the opportunity to see you before too long.

Very best wishes.

Sincerely,

R. G. GARD, JR.
