Dear Martin:

Thank you for your letter of 20 December. Unfortunately we have already exceeded the budget for travel funds in connection with the Conference on Policies for Chemical Weapons and Chemical Arms Control. However, there is a possibility, although probably remote, that some of the government people will not require reimbursement of travel expenses, in which case the Conference could help with your travel costs. I have discussed this matter with Bernie Feld, and since we both would like very much to have you with us, please plan to attend in any case. If there is no possibility of securing support elsewhere, somehow we shall find the necessary funds. But if at all possible, we hope that you can arrange funding from another source.

We look forward to seeing you at the Academy on the 21st.

Sincerely,

Matthew Meselson
