

GARD
CBW

HARVARD UNIVERSITY
THE BIOLOGICAL LABORATORIES
16 DIVINITY AVENUE
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS 02138

14 March 1977

Lt. Gen. Robert G. Gard, Jr.
President, National Defense University
Department of Defense
Washington, D.C. 20319

Dear Bob,

This is a tardy letter of thanks for your advice in helping me to organize the conference on chemical weapons and chemical arms control held at the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in January. I will send you a copy of the proceedings when they are ready.

I know that my good friend David Frisch has written to you for advice on his efforts to find a formula under which ROTC might return to a number of colleges and universities where exceptions have been taken to some of the terms of the 1964 Act. I hope that I was not wrong to assume that you might be interested in Frisch's effort.

We have had to change our plans to spend a month in the Dordogne this summer since we are moving from one house to another in Cambridge next month. That operation will leave neither time nor money for a european trip this year.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Matthew Meselson