Dear Professor Meselson,

I read with great interest the article Julian Robinson and you have published in the April issue of Scientific American Magazine on "Chemical warfare and chemical disarmament".

I found your contribution particularly instructive in the light of the present work of the Committee on Disarmament.

May I in turn send you a copy of the recent Belgian contribution to a definition of a chemical warfare agent and chemical munition.

Sincerely yours,

Permanent Representative of Belgium to the Committee on Disarmament.
