Dear Dr. Strong,

I want to thank you for the references you sent me in your letter of September 17. I look forward to reading the articles.

In answer to your question regarding the nature of my interest in mycotoxins, it really has little to do with my own scientific work. Instead, it stems from my long-standing interest in chemical weapons. I enclose a copy of an article about this from Scientific American which you may like to read.

Thank you sincerely for taking time to help me with this.

Sincerely yours,

Matthew Meselson
Professor of Biochemistry
