

THOMAS D. CABOT
125 HIGH STREET
BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS 02110

June 21, 1983

Dear Matt:

You have probably seen the attached from today's Wall Street Journal. My guess is that the writer of this editorial either wanted to show off his own erudition or wanted to cut Harvard down because of its arrogance. I have no doubt Harvard's science is superior, but some doubt whether proving it would be worth the fight. The Journal's readers would like to have the Russians proved liars. A suggestion as to further tests which might settle the controversy might be more helpful than provoking further argument about the validity of evidence already available.

Anyway, I would be interested in knowing more.

Sincerely yours,

Tom

Dr. Matthew Meselson
Harvard University
Biology Laboratory 411
Cambridge, Massachusetts 02138