Greetings Dr. Meselson:

Enclosed are the materials you requested during our phone conversation today. Note the error in the New Scientist article in the last sentence: 95% of Lao people do not have malaria. The correct statement is that "malaria is epidemic here (Meuang Hom, Laos) --95% of the people get it." This was the information presented to us by Lao doctors and a medic. It is explained more fully in our article on page 11 of the enclosed Chronicle

Thanks for your assistance on ideas about a scientific delegation visit to Laos. They are most helpful.

Best wishes,

Roger Rumpf
