Dear Peter,

Here is an excellent article on yellow rain which appeared in Chemical and Engineering News on January 9. I also enclose a letter we sent to Science and a manuscript describing the pollen in yellow rain samples. The manuscript has not been accepted for publication. You may refer to its results in your own words at the meeting but our findings should not actually be published elsewhere until they are published by us. Finally, I also include an article from Scientific American and some testimony given before the Senate Committees.

It was good to hear from you even on unpleasant subjects.

With warm regards,

Sincerely yours,

Matthew Meselson
