

September 17, 1986

Professor Bart Bernstein
Department of History
Stanford University
Stanford, CA 94305-2067

Dear Dr. Bernstein:

So far as I recall, Theodore Rosebury was the only biologist making sustained effort in opposition to the United States biological warfare program in the period you mentioned, 1944-50. You might also address your question to Julian Perry Robinson, Science Policy Research Unit, Mantell Bldg., University of Sussex, Brighton, BN1 9RF, England.

Sincerely yours,

Matthew Meselson