Dear Matthew,

I do not whether I have mentioned this conference, when I was in Cambridge. The International Program Committee met over the week-end; among other items, the program's structure was one major topic. The committee agreed on the following: to ask experts on their opinion about the section dealing with the chemical issue.

Elisa Harris, Karl-Heinz Lohs, and Julian Perry Robinson are already involved. The committee would like to have your comment; in addition you are asked whether you would like to convene or contribute to a workshop.

What it basically means, is that the structure can change, if you think that something important is missing. I cannot invite you at this particular time, but I am sure it will be no problem. We would pay travel costs and accomodation. maybe it would be a good idea to get in touch with Elisa; I have sent the same information to her. I hope you are interested and that you would like to come.

Angelika
