Dear Matt,

Many thanks for agreeing to let the Bulletin publish your Ma'in paper. It is a good primer on chemical weapons will serve our readers as an important antidote to the war-driven hysteria and misinformation about such weapons.

We are working on a very tight deadline in order to get this into our next issue (the April issue, which will be mailed out in mid-March). We will fax you an edited version of the paper within the next day or two for your approval and any necessary updating. As you know, the Bulletin only uses sparse citation endnotes, so don't bother to do any comprehensive endnoting.

Once you get the version from us, please give us a fast turnaround -- you can call or fax in changes, preferably by the 19th. Phone me or managing editor Nancy Myers if this will be a problem.

Thanks again.

All the best,

Len Ackland
