

Harris

September 24, 1991

Karen R. Harris
Program Director
Ploughshares Fund
Fort Mason Center
San Francisco, CA 94123

Dear Ms. Harris:

Julian Perry Robinson and I thought you might like to have the enclosed items describing a recent workshop in El Escorial, Spain jointly arranged and supported by the Harvard/Sussex Program and Pugwash.

The purpose of the workshop was to bring together experts from various developing and industrialized countries to discuss the implications of antichemical protection for the Chemical Weapons Convention now nearing completion in Geneva.

The workshop was most successful in clarifying the issues and in greatly increasing contacts between specialists and officials in diverse countries. Its substantive conclusions are summarized in the enclosed report by Robinson and me.

Needless to say, we greatly appreciate the support of The Ploughshares Fund which helped to make the El Escorial workshop possible.

Sincerely,

Matthew Meselson