Dear Dr. Meselson,

This note is to inform you that not only have I received your letter of 27 May but it won't be ignored. However, I will take additional time to respond to your questions as this time of the year, at least for me, has been fraught with unexpected "inter-relations" problems and I haven't been home very much.

The major problem in your questioning letter is the extent and availability of which the promate observations data was based. Not only was that data obtained over 35 years ago but that original work was accomplished when I was working with the Ralph W. Parsons Co. under contract

You mentioned a possible talk by you at Edgewood General in the next month or so. It is possible I would like to attend. What conference as much pertinent background information pertinent to your questions can be better discussed or elucidated in person.

Sincerely
Joseph Jemski
