Dear Ms Breedlove, I have your letter of April 17 and the enclosed comments on my article by reviewers A and B. I disagree with practically every comment made by reviewer A, and would accept partially only the last paragraph of reviewer B. In any event I withdraw my submission to JAMA for publication as I do not consider it worthwhile to spend the time and effort to fulfill the requirements for consideration and possible publication in your journal. Thank you for the time and trouble you have taken. Please note that I am sending a copy of this message to the individuals I have mentioned in appreciation for their help in preparing the manuscript. Yours, Martin Kaplan
