Ambassador Ahmad Kamal
Permanent Representative of Pakistan to the United Nations
8 East 65th Street
New York, NY 10021

Dear Ambassador Kamal,

Recalling our many friendly conversations in Geneva during the negotiation of the Chemical Weapons Convention, Julian Robinson and I cordially invite you to contribute a guest article to our journal, The CBW Conventions Bulletin. Now that the CWC is in force and Pakistan is a State Party, a sequel to your guest article "The Chemical Weapons Convention: Some Particular Concerns of Developing Countries" which appeared in our May 1989 issue would be most appropriate and welcome. We would of course be delighted to have an article from you on any aspect of chemical or biological weapons treaty matters or related subjects that you may wish to address.

If you should accept our invitation, your article could appear in our December issue if it could reach me here in Cambridge (by e-mail or fax or in Word Perfect or Microsoft Word on a diskette by express) by Friday, 28 November. Alternatively, it could appear in our March issue if I could have the text by Monday, 16 February. Guest articles in the Bulletin typically run from about 1500 to 4000 words.

With all good wishes,

Matthew Meselson
