Dear Matt:

I haven't had time to do anything about the planned follow-up on our discussions in Stockholm, since this fall has been a series of meetings, papers and conferences, one on top of the other. As you know, I did talk with Martin Kaplan both in Washington and in Boston, and Martin gave me a name or two of people who may know something about the normal background count of 1 micron size particles. I am trying to follow up the suggestions for more specific identification, but won't really get anything done till January.

Meanwhile, I thought you might be interested in the enclosed item from "Industrial Research".

I'll call you early in January to carry on further.

As ever,

Sincerely yours,
