Mr. Larry Smith
Office of Senator McIntyre
Old Senate Office Building
Room 405
Washington, D.C.

Dear Larry,

I enclose a copy of a recent letter to Arnold Brustin and also an article from the British publication New Scientist that may be of interest.

The National Academy Symposium on Chemical and Biological Warfare at Dartmouth is shaping up well. George Bunn and Han Swyter have agreed to speak during the afternoon. The third speaker I am trying for is Ivan Bennett but he travels more rapidly than long distance telephone can keep up with.

When the new budget is all worked out and if it contains an unclassified figure for CBW, either a lump sum or a breakdown, would you send it on to me?

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Matthew Meselson
