Professor M. Meselson,
Biological Laboratories,
16 Divinity Avenue
Harvard University
Cambridge 38, Massachusetts

Dear Professor Meselson:

I am writing to ask you for permission to make use of material in your contribution on the subject of biological warfare in the Proceedings of the 14th Pugwash Conference. I should like to do this in connection with an invitation I have received to address a medical student group at the University of Southern California on "The Doctor's Role in Biological and Chemical Warfare Research."

My reference to your remarks would be brief, and would of course observe normal procedure in terms of credit to you and to the Pugwash Conference. If you wish to attach any conditions to the granting of permission please do so: you may be sure that I shall observe them.

Following the usual rules of Pugwash Conferences I am also writing for permission to use this material to Professor Rotblat, Secretary-General of the Continuing Committee.

With best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Theodor Rosebury,
Professor of Bacteriology
